Jackie Riegle, PGA Director of Player Development

Jackie has been playing golf for over 27 years. She is accomplished at the junior, collegiate and professional levels. As the captain of her varsity golf team at San Diego State University, she traveled the United States and competed against top players around the nation. Beginning in 2012, she toured professionally on the Symetra-Road to the LPGA, Cactus, and Canadian Women's Tours and is a two-time winner on the Grasshopper Tour. She was also chosen as the Southern California PGA Apprentice Player of the Year, 2015.

In the winter of 2013, she joined the PGA of America as an apprentice and in early 2019 became a PGA Member & PGA.coach certified. Her teaching philosophy is simple: focus on the fundamentals while working with your natural abilities to create a repeatable and confident golf swing. She believes that the most efficient way to lower your handicap is learning how to turn 14 clubs into 30+. Course management and creativity with shot making are a few of her many specialties. As a teacher, her primary objective is to make golf an even more enjoyable experience. Her experience working with top teaching professionals such as Jamie Mulligan, Michael Block and our own, Eric Lohman, combined with her numerous years of playing competitively, has made her an asset to the golf world.

She is available to work with both adults and juniors and truly enjoys sharing her passion for the game.
