Second floor/medium flight; medium roll; normal spin:

● Hold the club with a neutral grip (two knuckles showing in your forward hand) and keep the club-face square to the target line or slightly open.

● The ball and your body weight should be in the middle of your stance.

● Incorporate more body turn, hit the middle of the ball and make an unforced toe release through impact.

Third floor/higher flight; little roll; maximum spin:

● Hold the club with a strong grip (three knuckles showing in your forward hand) and have the clubface wide open to the target line.

● Place the ball forward in your stance, keep your weight on the back leg and hit the outside quarter of the ball.

● Don't release the club at or past impact; only turn your body and let the club pass underneath your hands while your lead wrist folds.

● Finish with the club much higher in the air than with the other two techniques.
